Page 5 (referring to major groups in Camp Valka)

The major groups were still the Senes, Prchala, and the Slovak separatist factions but various splinter groups appeared and disappeared in the face of competition and organization of the three principal elements. Following is a breakdown of the various parties represented and their corresponding platforms:

Slovensky Oslobodzovaci Vrbor (Slovak Liberation Committee- SOV) This branch belongs to the international organization of the same name which is headed by Dr. Ferdinand DURCANSKY, now in Argentina. The party in Germany is controlled from Argentina through a Dr. Ctibor Pokorny living and working in Nuertingen. The party aim is to re-establish the Slovak Republic. Its members claim they don't want to emigrate but would rather remain in Germany to await the liberation of their homeland. Card-carrying members of this party are given a membership card signed by Dr. DURCANSKY BEARING THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT: "This is to certify that Mr. _____ is a participant of the action of the Slovak Liberation Committee which is fighting against International Communism and for the creation of the Slovak Republic. In case of war, the Subject will fight on the side of Western Democracies in the Slovak Army abroad against the forces of Communist Imperialism." The cards are sent from Argentina in blocks of ten or more by registered airmail.

The DURCANSKY Sov movement was particularly active in the camp and engaged in a campaign to sell bonds for its cause, proceeds of which were sent to Argentina to the Sov treasury. Once a month the West German Sov representative delivered the bonds to a card member, picked up money collected from previous sales, and allegedly transferred the money to Argentina. Printed on the bonds was the information that they would be redeemable to the bearer within two years after the re-establishment of the Slovak Republic, with 5% interest. The purchase of the bonds indicated the faith which Sov members held in the re-establishment of the Slovak Republic.
